INTERNAL MEDICINE BOARD REVIEW

■ DAVID L. LONGWORTH AND JAMES K. STOLLER, EDITORS

Chest pain in a patient with congenital heart disease 206

A self-test featuring a challenging clinical presentation.

A.M. ARNOLD

MEDICAL GRAND ROUNDS

■ WILLIAM S. WILKE, EDITOR

Managing acetaminophen overdose 209

Alcohol and certain drugs potentiate the hepatotoxic effects of this common, over-the-counter analgesic. Treatment with acetylcysteine and, possibly, cimetidine can prevent irreversible liver damage.

N. GITLIN

Identifying early markers of type II diabetes 210

Earlier identification of people at risk may permit intervention with diet and exercise to prevent NIDDM.

A.E. MEHTA

CLINICAL REVIEWS

Dopamine agonists in the treatment of Parkinson's disease 212

Bromocriptine or pergolide can control symptoms when used alone or as an adjunct to levodopa therapy, and can permit a lowering of the levodopa dose.

R. PAHWA AND W.C. KOLLER

Oral disease in the geriatric patient: the physician's role 218

By being alert for common oral problems, physicians can help their elderly patients maintain function and quality of life.

M.A. PYLE AND G.T. TEREZHALMY

Current status of stress echocardiography in the diagnosis of coronary artery disease 227

Electrocardiography with exercise or pharmacologic stress is gaining clinical acceptance, but its accuracy depends on the expertise of the people who perform it.

Stress echocardiography: its emerging role in identifying viable myocardium 235

In patients with chronic ischemia or left ventricular systolic dysfunction, this test can indicate whether the damaged myocardium is still viable and, therefore, whether revascularization would be beneficial.

C.M. RIMMERMAN

Pathogenesis of epilepsy: the role of excitatory amino acids 240

These neurotransmitters seem to play a role in brain development—and also in seizures. Experimental drugs can block their action.

CURRENT DRUG THERAPY

■ DONALD G. VIDT, EDITOR

Drugs for the prevention and treatment of acute renal failure 248

Mannitol, loop diuretics, dopamine, and calcium antagonists show promise, but they have not yet been rigorously tested for this indication. Caution is advised.

F. COSENTINO

CANCER DIAGNOSIS AND MANAGEMENT

■ MAURIE MARKMAN, EDITOR

Trends in radiation oncology: a review for the non-oncologist 254

One hundred years after the first radiation treatment, technical improvements continue, with more-powerful machines and more-precise planning.

A. KOKA AND R.M. MACKLIS

EDITORIAL

Caring for dying patients: physicians and assisted suicide 259

Both advocates and opponents can agree on the need for better palliative care.

C.K. CASSEL

CLINICAL CASE

Postpartum myocardial infarction: association with primary coronary artery dissection 261
